Readings: 2 Chronicles 36:14-16,19-23, Ephesians 2:4-10, John 3:14-21.

One of our monks who lived to a grand old age – in the most mournful of tones, always began his homilies by reminding us of what dreadful sinners we all are, not just us monks, but the whole human race and how we need, therefore, to repent.

St John says in one of his letters If we say we are without sin, we deceive ourselves.

In our second reading, the letter to the Ephesians tells them, and therefore you and me, that God loved us with so much love that he was generous with his mercy: when we were dead through our sins, he brought us to life in Christ.

To be dead through our sins may have various interpretations but if it means isolation from the love of God, then could there be anything worse, because it would also mean being isolated from all human love and affection.

As they continue to gaze into the galaxies, some atheist cosmologists and astrophysicists are re-evaluating the probability of ever finding life out there and the concomitant and terrifying realization that we may be alone after all is dawning upon them: for with that hope gone, what would be the point of all our loves, our endeavours, our science as well as our loves... if it all comes to nothing – as if the discovery of aliens would resolve the mystery of existence.

Yet, at least for the atheist, those fears, if true, will come to an end with the rest of existence, but if what the letter to the Ephesians says about sin is true, then the sinner is in for an eternity without love which is a living death... hell imposed, not by God but by our free choice.

The consequences of sin then, are serious and not to be brushed aside just because we cannot imagine a loving God who would allow us to make such a choice, for that is just wishful thinking and goes against the biblical and spiritual testimonies of the church over the ages. Moreover, such wishful thinking is tantamount to making a god in our own fallen image which is the terrible sin of idolatry enshrined in the first of the Ten Commandments.

Today is Laetare or Rejoice Sunday inspired by the first word of the Entrance Antiphon. But after such a gloomy picture of the consequences of sin, what is there to rejoice about?

We rejoice that like those exiled from Jerusalem (1st reading & Resp. Psalm) and from God's love through sin, their time of exile and mourning is over so exult and be satisfied at her consoling breast for not only did God never abandon them, he opens his arms to them with the love of a mother... what a comforting thought!

We rejoice because we have a loving, generous and merciful God who, through the death of his Son on the cross, has brought us back to life with him from the sin and death that would have separated us from him with the nightmarish consequences we have just been reflecting upon.

And we rejoice because Jesus himself tells us that all we have to do to be saved from sin and death, and to have eternal life, is to repent and believe in him.

The monk was, of course, right: we are sinners, but we are also repentant and redeemed sinners. Because, through his cross and resurrection, Christ has opened the way for us to follow.

He doesn't force us to follow, he invites us to follow, thus honouring his gift of our freedom to choose.

So, on this Laetare Sunday, let us not waste time looking among the stars for our hope, but to the Son of Man lifted up as Moses lifted the serpent in the desert... let us look upon the eternal life-giving power of the cross and to the one who gave his life upon it, in place of ours.

Reflections

Bidding Prayers for the 4th Sunday of Lent (Laetare Sunday)

Priest: God sent his Son into the world so that through him we might be saved. We ask him to listen our prayers.

Reader: For Pope Francis – we join with his prayers in response to his plea for peace in Ukraine and the Middle East. Lord in Your Mercy...

For Christians everywhere – we live in a world where anger, contempt and cruelty can so often be seen to prevail. Help all Christians to show compassion and service in their daily lives. Lord in Your Mercy...

For new parents and grandparents – that they are able to show their children and grandchildren the joy that comes through the love and mercy of God. Lord in Your Mercy...

For all those in our Parish who are struggling financially, spiritually or emotionally. Give them strength to face the future. Lord in Your Mercy...

For ourselves – sometimes we may feel let down, bitter or angry. Help us to find ways to forgive, let go and move on to something better. Lord in Your Mercy...

On this Laetare Sunday we rejoice in the gleam of light that speaks of the joy waiting for us at the end of Lent, joining together in prayer as we say... Hail Mary...

We take a moment's silence for our own prayers.

Priest: Jesus said I am the way, the truth and the life. We make these prayers through Jesus Christ, Our Lord.

PRAYER FOR THE SICK

Priest: As we thank God for the gift of his Son in Holy Communion, let us remember those of our Parish who are sick or housebound.

All: May the body and blood of your Son, which we now send to them through our Eucharistic Ministers, bring them consolation and peace. We ask this in the name of Jesus, Our Lord. Amen.
